

To all the volunteers of the 2011, 24 Hours of Gold, you took an enthusiastic approach this last weekend; you all worked with overwhelming passion.

There was so much more that you all did I cannot mention without writing a book, so in short here's to wonderful volunteers.

Kathy Parker helped at the registration & 8 hour timing table and helped me with pre-race preparations, as well keep me organized. Rodney Cox was our rider gather up meeting announcer helped with race registration and 24 hour timing table till he was forced to take a break. Mindy McPherson helped with registration 8 & 24 hour timing with energy to come back later in the day to ride the race course. Charles Winegarden drove from all the way from Fremont to help with all 8 hour timing & 24 hr. timing. Susan Wright did shopping for supplies worked at the registration, 24 hr. timing and helped calm me down when needed and that was often. Lyle Wright what didn't he do? He made the way cool trophies, Friday to late Sunday Lyle was there, setting-up marking the course to sweeping the course clean at the end, and tirelessly answering mine and other questions. Neils Wright helped getting much needed last minute supplies and helping with timing in the late hours. David Casagrande helped with getting safety supplies and setting them out, and making sure I didn't over load electric power circuit's, was out assisting out at the lonely road crossing. Gary Leese helped mark the course on his bicycle and manned the lonely, lonely road crossing. Byron Fountain was enduring the bitter cold at the road crossing at sunrise in shorts. Jim Brewer helped at the road crossing till we told him to take a break, cheering and encouraging each rider. Dave Quintel helped mark the course with flour on his bicycle. Greg Bridgman our web and computer go to guy, gave endless hours of pre-during-post data and web up dates, and for getting the results so quickly posted on the web. Mary Scheer was in the trailer preparing such wonderful hot food and meals for the riders and volunteers. Stephen Scheer supplied the kitchen and motorcycle for safety and helped whenever asked. And Colten Sheer our energizing fun little guy that kept everything in perspective, keeping it fun.

Thank You all
